Our Editorial Board comprises a diverse group of renowned experts and active researchers at the forefront of advanced computing, artificial intelligence, and cloud computing. They bring extensive scientific expertise and leadership from academia, industry, and research institutions worldwide, ensuring the highest standards of quality, innovation, and relevance in the journal's published work.

Roles and Responsibilities

The Editorial Board plays a critical role in shaping the strategic direction of the journal, maintaining rigorous peer review standards, and fostering the dissemination of cutting-edge research. Their key responsibilities include:

- Providing scientific and technical guidance to uphold the journal's mission in advancing knowledge in computing and AI.
- Overseeing the peer review process by recommending expert reviewers and ensuring timely, constructive evaluations of submitted manuscripts.
- Identifying emerging research trends and recommending topics for special issues or commissions.
- Advising on editorial policies, ethical standards, and innovation in publishing practices.
- Contributing editorial articles, reviews, and commentaries that highlight significant advancements and future directions in the field.
- Promoting the journal within their professional networks to attract high-quality submissions and readership.

Commitment to Excellence and Diversity

Our board members are selected based on their expertise, scholarly reputation, and commitment to advancing the fields of AI, cloud computing, and advanced computing technologies. We emphasize diversity in geography, gender, and research foci to ensure inclusive representation and a broad spectrum of perspectives. This diversity enriches the editorial process and supports our goal of publishing impactful, globally relevant research.
